

I believe it is essential that local ownership of media outlets be not only maintained but supported and that media conglomerates not be permitted to take over the world of public communications and news. We are all part of communities, small and large, and must be able to learn and communicate from that place. The conglomerates are really only interested in making money and that is not, or should not, be what public communication is about.